RICE LEAPS TO $10.50 A PICUL; TO STAY FIRM

Price Of Main Cereal Jumps One Dollar In Two Days

RIOTS POSSIBLE

City Magistrate Starts Two Cheap Exchanges To Aid Poor

The price of rice in Shanghai took a leap of three points yesterday morning and two more yesterday afternoon. The closing quotation for first class rice yesterday was $10.50 per picul, one dollar higher than two days ago. Rice merchants stated that unless large quantities of the cereal reach here this week, the $12 mark will have to be hit soon.

In spite of the strenuous efforts being made to stop rice smuggling into Japan, it is known that large quantities are still shipped to Tsingtao and Taku by profiteers.

RIOTS FEARED

The City Magistrate, Mr. Shen Pao-chang, realising the grave danger of rice riots similar to those in Japan last year, has planned the opening on Saturday of two cheap rice exchanges in Nantao—one at the Temple of the Dragon King, and the other at the Boatmen's Guild.

Magistrate Shen has ordered 100,000 piculs of Kiangsi and Hunan rice to be shipped to Shanghai immediately. He has also secured permission from the local authorities to exempt taxes in order to be able to sell the food at very low prices.

OTHER MEASURES

Before the arrival of this shipment, he will purchase several thousand piculs from the local merchants at cost price.

Fourteen carloads of rice suspected to have been smuggled out from Shanghai have been seized in Fungking and sent back to Shanghai. The trial of the case is arousing a great deal of local interest.

BELGIUM SPEAKS

Brussels, May 30.—M. Renkin, Minister of the Interior, in the course of a speech here today, said that Belgium should have a well-organised army, capable of prexenting a disaster, worse than that of 1914. He added that alliances and military arrangements with Great Britain and France ought to furnish Belgium with the means of defense but that their materialisation was uncertain.

Famous British Expert Flays 'Irresponsible' In Tokio For Embroglio

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 29.—Continuing his Far Eastern articles in the Times today, Mr. J. O. P. Bland says that, next to the demoralisation of the Chinese Government, the continued exercise of irresponsible authority by the military parties in Tokio is the most important and most dangerous factor in the Far Eastern situation today.

"Unless," Mr. Bland adds, "the invisible and irresponsible powers behind the throne, which actually control Japan's foreign policy, can be replaced soon by authoritative Cabinet Government, there can be no real hope of satisfactory results from a renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

"Japan stands at the cross-roads. If she decides to follow her present path of aggression in China, then she must go forward alone but, if not, she must give valid assurances that the declared policy of her Government will henceforth be binding upon her military as well as her civil agents."

FIFTY KILLED IN RAINSTORMS OVER ENGLAND

Lincolnshire Inundated By Great Cloudbursts—Many Have Narrow Escapes

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 30.—Torrential rainfalls in the north and north-east of England have had devastating effects. The streamlet Lud at Louth in Lincolnshire swelled to two hundred yards wide and swept away bridges and buildings, leaving a path thick with debris. The water reached the trees and upper storeys of houses where people were taking refuge and many were thus caught in a trap.

The bodies of twenty drowned persons have so far been recovered while hundreds of people have been rendered homeless. Buildings at Grimsby are also badly waterladen. The Grimsby-Louth railway line is submerged. The rains have also washed away part of the London and Northwestern mainline near Lancaster and the whole surrounding countryside is swamped.

FIFTY ARE DEAD

Later.—The deathroll at Louth is now estimated at fifty. The flood carried off four firemen who were working a fire engine. A terrace of fifteen houses was completely demolished. Only one occupant remains alive.

CLOUDBURST IS CAUSE

London, May 31.—The Louth disaster was due to a cloud-burst. It occurred about tea-time yesterday and without warning a roaring torrent, fifteen feet deep, carrying with it livestock, trunks of trees, furniture and other debris, engulfed half the town in a few minutes. The inhabitants had barely time to escape to upper storeys, chimney flues, roofs and tree tops.

An entire family was trapped in a room and drowned. When the flood subsided there was revealed an appalling scene of devastation, reminiscent of an air-raid; crumbling houses and heaps of mud-covered pianos, wardrobes and shop goods.

SOUGHT FOR VICTIMS

Search parties were quickly organised for the work of extracting the corpses, entangled in the wreckage. One doctor spent hours wading and swimming to attend the injured. Many persons, half drowned, were resuscitated.

One woman had a narrow escape. She had fastened herself and her baby to a meat-hook in the ceiling and was rescued unconscious. Her other children were drowned. The damage is estimated at £100,000.

CHINESE TAKING PLACE IN CIVIC AFFAIRS OF JAVA

Secretary Of Legislative Body At Batavia On Shanghai Visit

Chinese are coming into their own in Java, according to Dr. A. B. Cohen Stuart, secretary of the Volksraad, which corresponds to an American House of Representatives, who is now in Shanghai. Dr. Stuart is on his way to Peking from which place he will go to Japan, then to the United States and later to England. He will be absent from Batavia for a year.

In an interview the doctor said:

"The political situation of 'poor, harmless China' as Mr. Hyndman calls it, has found much comment. In the Chinese Republic the struggle for true democracy has not yet attained great results. Even in the foreign settlements, the Chinese are not admitted to the Municipal Councils. Only in Shanghai, as far as I know, the French Municipal Council has a few Chinese advisory members, and a smal' advisory committee to the International Municipal Council will now perhaps be formed, after much discussion.

CHINESE IN OFFICE

"How is the political situation in the Netherland East Indies? There Chinese are members of all municipal councils and of most of the other local boards. The Chinese are represented by two members in the House of Representatives ("Volksraad") at Batavia. The total number of members being 39, it follows that the Chinese hold about 5 percent of the seats. Considering that the Chinese community in the entire colony does not form quite 2 percent of the whole population, it would appear that Chinese have no reason to complain about the measure in which they are represented.

"Chinese can be nominated to nearly all Government offices, capacity being as a rule the only criterion.

"Since ten or twelve years their education has been promoted in a very active way. Holland-Chinese schools are everywhere. Chinese are admitted to the agricultural, engineering and medicine schools on the same footing as others. A Government training school for Chinese teachers has been established. Many Chinese students are in Holland where they can take all kinds of university grades. It is expected that within a short time the Chinese will have a still more

New Siberian Government Calls Parliament For June 17th, Says Report

"Far Eastern Republic" Astounds Japan With Moderate Demands For Government Of Buffer State And Surrounding Territory

(Via Russia News Agency)

Vladivostok, May 29.—The Provisional Government in Vladivostok announces arrangements providing for a temporary parliament. Elections to this parliament will follow immediately. All political parties and the proprietory class will participate in the work of the Parliament.

The first session will be held on June 17, provided there are 50 members present.

The electoral region embraces the Amur and Maritime provinces, Kamchatka and Sakhaline, and other territories immediately the boundaries of the Buffer state are defined.

The Provisional parliament is empowered, when convened, to grant electorial privileges to any political party which has up to the present time been denied this right.

SECOND CONFERENCE

Verhneudinsk, May 25.—The Second Conference of the Peace Delegation on the Chita front has handed its statement to the Japanese Legation. The Japanese declared that they had no authority to decide and asked for two days to consult higher authorities.

Moderate demands of the Government of the Far Eastern Republic have surprised the Japanese. Firstly, according to the mutual agreement, the Japanese are to evacuate the territory, immediately, on both sides of the Chita-Manchuria railway line. Chita and Kuenga are declared "spheres of influence" of the Japanese expeditionary forces.

Within this belt all Russian armed forces, namely, the people's [illegible] with, political and administrative control of the Government of the Far Eastern Republic, which guarantees uninterrupted transportation.

Should the Japanese command reject this offer, its true intentions will be easily solved by the public.

Today's session of the Russian delegation was held with the participation of official representatives of the Amur District.

The statement made by the Government of the Far Eastern Republic made a great impression upon the Japanese delegation. All the three conferences held by the two parties, especially the Japanese, clearly reiterated that no state of war existed or may exist between two parties.

QUESTIONS AUTHORITY

With regard to the recent statement made by Semenoff—Reuter's telegram dated May 27—the Chinese Branch of the News Agency Russia, in Vladivostok, states that it hardly needs to say much of Semenoff's authority to make any such statements.

"As to the statement made by Semenoff," says Russia, "that the Provisional Zemstvo Government, since the late Japanese movement of April 4, has ceased to exist, we consider it necessary to repudiate this statement by referring to the following facts:

"1.—Since the Japanese movement in Vladivostok, the Provisional Zemstvo Government has not, as a matter of fact, been carrying on its function save on one day, April 5. Since then all the government institutions have been carrying on their functions uninterruptedly and all the officials have been abiding strictly by all orders of the Provisional Government.

SUPPORT IS GENERAL

All [illegible] of the population [illegible] support the Government. This is evident from the resolution unanimously adopted by the City Council of Vladivostok (elected by the entire population of that city) as well as from the numerous resolutions adopted by the various public and political organisations including the Cadet party, Chamber of Commerce and the Stock Exchange Committee.

"Even the military units, notwithstanding the fact that their connections with the Government can by no means be regarded as normal since the Japanese move-

Message Received By Chamber Here Denies Prices Have Slumped In America

Reports that have been filtering into China in recent weeks that retail prices in American cities have been tumbling are branded as untrue in a cable from the American Exporters-Importers Association that was received yesterday by the American Chamber of Commerce. Following is the text of the message.

"American Chamber of Commerce of China, Shanghai.

"Please inform the trade that newspaper reports regarding radical price reduction are erroneous and apply only to local retail trade. These reports express the universal desire to reduce the cost living.

"All manufactured merchandise continues scarce, in great demand, and will certainly remain so as long as factory production is restricted by labor strikes and strikes in ports, railroads and other commercial centers.

"European nations cannot supply their own present requirements leaving little if any available supplies for export. American works today are manufacturing much below capacity due to a great scarcity of raw material and urgent delivery demands constantly are increasing.

"Your buyers should not be misled by sensational articles as the above statement is confirmed by all reliable sources of information. Please advise neighboring trade associations.

Troops were called out and fired on the rioters. Several of the strikers were wounded.

Philadelphia, May 27.—All deep-sea freighters are held up as the result of a strike of longshoremen who are demanding a minimum wage of $1 an hour.

ShinyoMaru Delayed· Omitting This Port

Delay caused by engine trouble at sea is causing the steamer Shinyo Maru to omit Shanghai and Manila on its present voyage, according to reports that have reached the city. It is believed the Shinyo will sail for Manila from Hongkong and will touch here on the return voyage.

Noted Political Adviser To China Dies In London

DR. G. E. MORRISON

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 31.—The Times announces the death of Dr. G. E. Morrison, political adviser to the Chinese Government.

George Ernest Morrison was political adviser to the President of the Republic of China from 1912 to the time of his death. Previously, as London Times correspondent, Dr. Morrison traveled extensively throughout Indo-China, Siam and China. He was born in Geelong, Victoria, Australia, on February 4, 1862, and was the son of the late Dr. G. Morrison. In 1912 he married Miss Jennie Wark Robin, daughter of Mr. Robert Robin. He is survived by the widow and two sons.

Dr. Morrison received his education at Melbourne University and Edinburgh University. He studied medicine and graduated as M.B. and C.M. in 1887. He crossed Australia on foot from the Gulf of Carpentaria to Melbourne.

In 1894, Dr. Morrison crossed from Shanghai to Rangoon by land and traveled as the special Times correspondent from Bangkok, Siam, to Yunnanfu, Yunnan round Tonquin, reaching his destination in 1896. A year later, he crossed Manchuria from Stretensk to Vladivostok.

During the siege of the legations in Peking in 1900, Dr. Morrison was residing in the Chinese capital. He was also present at the triumphal entry into Port Arthur during the Russo-Japanese War.

Dr. Morrison crossed in 1907 the entire country from Peking to the French border of Tonquin. He represented the Times at the Portsmouth Peace Conference in 1905. In 1910, he set out on another long hike and rode from Honan to Andijan in Russian Turkestan, a distance of 3,750 miles in 175 days.

Dr. Morrison had traveled in every province of China except Tibet. For his service as advisor to the chief executive of the Republic the first class Chiaoho was conferred on him. He is the author of several books, including the publication, "An Australian in China." He lived in Peking up to last year, when he returned to England for medical attention. He was operated on twice, but the best surgeons in England were unable to save his life.

Dr. Morrison's library in Peking was considered the most complete in China. It had every book that was ever published on Chinese topics. It was, however, sold to a Japanese when he returned to England.

Persia Reminds League Of Nations Of Its Obligations

London, May 29.—The Persian Foreign Minister has forwarded a fresh note to the League of Nations as a reminder of the Persian Government's request to the League to summon an extraordinary meeting of the Council, in connection with the Bolshevik seizure of the Persian port of Enzeli.

The Soviet Government has replied to the Persian note of protest with regard to the Enzeli incident, indicating that no further Bolshevik advance into Persia will be made at present, and the Bolshevik forces now in Persia will shortly be withdrawn.

DISSOLUTION OF ANFU CLUB IS DEMANDED BY WU PEI-FU

Peiyang Clique Wages War On Anfuites And Denounces Tuan

Monarchist Consults Ex-Bandit Tuchun; To Repeat Coup

From a clash between the North and the South, the Hunan situation has assumed the aspect of a battle between the Anfu clique and the Peiyang faction. The Tuchuns of the Peiyang party, represented by the Tuchun's League, are planning to make a desperate effort to break the Anfu administration and supplant it with their own forces.

General Wu Pei-fu, the Chihli general who ignited the spark that set all Hunan afire, arrives in Hankow today. He will see the Tuchun, General Wang Tsang-yuan, and offer definite proposals to him, it is reported. A herald in the person of one of his lieutenants has already approached General Wang on this matter. He denounces Tuan Chi-jui. He wants to dissolve the Anfu gang.

The present scheme of the Peiyang Party includes the removal of the Military Governors of Anhui, Shensi and Hunan. Generals Ni Shih-chung, Cheng Shu-fang and Chang Ching-yao and the ousting of Little Hsu, who is now in D[illegible].

AFFAIRS IN MONGOLIA

[illegible] been gaining [illegible] in the alleged attempts to secure the allegiance of Mongolia. To a certain extent, he has succeeded with his armed force. What the Peiyang Party wants now is to keep him in Mongolia.

The Anfu crowd in Peking, meanwhile, are most anxious that Little Hsu should return. They want Tuan Chi-jui to march down to Hunan and have Little Hsu as the watch dog of Peking. A military conference was recently held in Tuanho, where Tuan Chi-jui is residing. The conference is firm in its decision to crush the South and the revolting Peiyang troops, if necessary, with armed force.

Taking hold of this opportunity, the monarchists are again becoming active. Chang Haun has gone to Fengtien to hold a reunion with his relative and sympathiser, Chang Tso-ling, the bandit Tuchun. What he wants is furnishing the officials in Peking with material for a great deal of speculation.

ASKS FOR TROOPS

Many think that he will repeat his monarchial restoration as he is said to have asked Chang to let him have two divisions of troops to march against Peking. Others suggest that a good position for him will eliminate all trouble and he has been nominated to replace General Ni Shih-chung, the Anhui Tuchun. But Tuan objects. Tuan whipped Chang in 1917 in the latter's attempts to place the baby emperor, Pu Yi, on the throne and would not tolerate his appointment as a colleague.

The combats in Hunan and Szechuan are raging more vigorously, reports say. The Northern troops, unable to stand the heavy bombardment, are evacuating Hengyang and are taking positions at a village called Chwangshucheng after suffering severe casualities.

Further charges have been brought against General Wu Pei-fu for withdrawing from Hunan and causing the combat. It is alleged that for giving up the three cities, Leiyang, Kiyang and Anieng, General Wu received $600,000 from the South.

In Szechuen, the forces on both sides are concentrated round Chaochiatu for a desperate engagement. The Military Commissioner of Chungkiang has fled. The Kweichow troops stationed in that district have attacked Tuchun Hsiun Ko-wu's troops at several points.

"4.—Foreign representatives recognise the Zemstvo Government as a de facto government. A representative of this Government attends the sessions of the Inter-Allied Railway Committee, and even carried the duty of its president.

"5.—A business-like recognition of this Government by the Japanese representatives may be confirmed by the following facts:

GIVES THE FACTS

"a.—During the recent Japanese movement, the Japanese troops released from prison some officers, adherents of the policy of Rozanoff and Semenoff. The commander-in-chief of the Japanese troops expressed his regrets with regard to this fact.

"In view of the fact that, on the first days after the Japanese movement, the Provisional Government had only an insufficient number of troops at its disposal, the Japanese commander-in-chief placed his Gendarmerie troops at the disposal of the Provisional Government to bring the prisoners back to the city prison. The chief of the Zemstvo militia accepted the services of the Japanese militia.

"b.—At a meeting of the Inter-Allied Railway Committee, held on account of the rumors widely spread in Vladivostok with regard to the proposed coup d'etat in that city, Matsudaira declared that since the Japanese command found it necessary to disarm the Zemstvo troops, it considers its duty to prevent any one from overthrowing the existing Government.

"c.—Since the recent Japanese movement, many agreements have been arrived at and signed by the representatives of Japan and the Zemstvo government. These are: Agreement providing for the further presence of Japanese troops in the Far East; agreement providing for billetting of the Japanese and Russian troops in the district, and the agreement providing for the railway transportation.

"Semenoff's report on the negotiations, which are alleged to have been carried on between the Zemstvo government and foreigners, is by no means true. So far as we know, the Zemstvo government has not been conducting any negotiations to this effect, nor has it in view a plan to start such negotiations."

WILL PRESERVE QUAINT SPOT ON MOKANSHAN PEAK

Local Merchant Undertakes To Turn Historical Plot Into Public Garden

The offer of Mr. M. Y. San, the local confectioner, to improve the historical spot on the highest peak of Mokanshan and to make it a public garden, has been accepted by Mr. Tsao Yu-cheng, magistrate of Wu Kang-hsien, under whose control the famous summer resort now rests.

The parcel of land, known to the residents as "Pagoda Peak," has been the object of struggle by a number of foreign land owners at Mokanshan. The local authorities however, have succeeded in keeping the property public. For a considerable time it has been suggested that a public garden be constructed there and that all the ancient land marks be preserved. The shortage of public funds, however, has kept the spot in its ancient form.

A pagoda used to stand on the highest point of the peak. It is said to have been erected by people of some remote dynasty. Age has caused the pagoda to fall, but the foundation remains intact.

'China Press' Correspondent Describes Activities In Kiangsu Province

(China Press Correspondence)

Changchow, Kiangsu, May 27.—Our city has, for the last few days, been a real representation of the condition existing in a large part of the world; namely, a struggle between many forces. Monday last, the 6th day of the 4th moon, was the sixtieth anniversary of the falling of the city of Changchow before the Taipings. Many lost their lives on that occasion.

An ardent believer in Buddha conceived the idea of doing honor to these dead heroes and also hoping to give them aid and assistance, if any should be unhappy, by having a great celebration.

Some time ago the news was sent out that the large Buddhist Monastery would be glad to take a class in training for the priesthood and would graduate them on the above date; so they came from all over China. For more than forty days they have been here in training.

On the night of the sixth 1,080 took the vows of the order and so were set apart by the burning of holes in the top of the head. Of this number 822 took the full vow and so had twelve holes burnt. The remaining number took partial vows and so were accordingly given from one to nine marks.

Your correspondent did not see this performance, but on the following night, in company with others, he went and saw them take their meal about 3 a.m. and afterwards we were taken into the inner reception room and served a nice meal.

Then, in due time, we were given the privilege of seeing all these newly ordained priests take the final vows and finish their training. During the day and night following they were to take their departure for their respective provinces.

After the ceremony, the newly ordained priests will refrain from eating meats, fish, fowl, eggs or any other food possessing animal life. Vegetables, beans and bean products, cereals, and preserves will constitute the main dishes of their meals.

It is generally recognised that these vegetarian priests live longer than laymen. The Buddhist doctrine believes that every crime must be punished and every benevolent act rewarded in after life. Killing for the sake of food is considered a crime.

All Buddhists believe in the transmigration of souls. So if a man eats the meat of ten pigs during his whole life, his soul will have to be transmigrated to a pig for ten times before it can again be incarnated into a human body.

DR. DEWEY TALKS

On the same day that this was completed, the Educational Association of the city had Dr. Dewey of New York give his first of three very interesting and instructive lectures on modern education and how to meet the needs of the new China.

Some of the leaders of the association were present at the morning consecration service. At the request of the Educational Association, these meetings were held in the Methodist church and, although the attendance was by special ticket on each of the three occasions, the auditorium, which seats some thousand people, was full and many were standing in aisles and about the doors.

CHINA PROGRESSING

One sometimes wonders if we are really making progress in China. It is not all rosy when we compare with yesterday, but if we compare with a decade ago then we realise that we do move.

Witness the opening of public gardens, increase in daily newspapers, new city gates and some new roads with the ricshas to displace the wheelbarrow and the sedan chair. Though there is still much room for improvement, sanitation is coming in for some attention.

Our magistrate, along with our leading military officials are progressive and manifest a real interest in the betterment of the conditions about us.

Our community has suffered a distinct loss in the transfer of the Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Smith from here to Changshu. They will be greatly missed in all the community activities. Mr. Smith was in direct touch with quite a number of the young men of the city and Mrs. Smith, with her music and other forms of service, was adding much to the community spirit among the women. We wish them greatest success in the great field to which they have gone.

We have recently had in our midst the Misses Thompsons of Atlanta, Georgia, who are spending a year in the Orient, studying conditions and seeing the needs especially along the lines of kindergarten and social service.

Work has begun on a new residence for one of the missionary families. This is one of the first fruits of the great centenary movement mentioned above and those who have been living in Chinese houses these several years are delighted to see it.

Sells Dolls To Aid French Widows

With a bevy of beautiful dolls in her arms, pretty Miss Florence Dixon posed for the camera man at the Coin de France exhibit in New York. The dolls were made by widows of French officers, and Miss Dixon was aiding in the sale of them. The exhibit is for the benefit of war widows.

Vast Assemblage Gathers To Cheer Prince Of Wales

(Reuter's Service)

Melbourne, May 29.—Over thirty thousand persons were present at a special agricultural show at the Race Course today in honor of the Prince of Wales. The gathering included the Governor General, the Prime Minister of Australia and most of the State Premiers.

The Prince had great difficulty in getting his car through the miles of cheering crowds.

In view of the assemblage, principally women and children, who continue to wait for hours in the streets, night and day, wherever the Prince is expected to pass, the press is appealing to the public to keep the roads clear, to enable punctuality to be observed, otherwise the Prince's program will have to be reduced.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, May 31.—General Degoutte, commanding the French forces on the Rhine, has issued a special order of the day on the occasion of the departure of the Senegalese troops for Asia Minor.

The order declares that by their cordiality and simplicity in their relations with the population of the occupied area, the Senegalese had gained the sympathy of all with whom they had been associated.

General Degoutte praises their high moral standard and sense of duty as men and soldiers and, in conclusion, says that he salutes "their colors, still new but already resplendent with honors."

Prominent Nipponese Are On Hand To Greet Lieut. Ferrarin

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, May 31.—There were more than 100,000 people present at the Yoyogi Parade Ground this afternoon and Lieutenants Masiero and Ferrarin were enthusiastically greeted on their completion of the Rome-Tokio flight.

Lieutenant Masiero was sighted at 1:15 and after flying over the parade ground for five minutes made a perfect landing. Lieutenant Ferrarin was sighted at 2:25. He, too, circled over the ground for five minutes before landing.

As soon as the machines came in sight a military band on the ground began playing and the crowd raised a tremendous cheer, continuing cheering until the airmen landed.

WELCOMED HEARTILY

Major-General Inouye, the Commander of the Aviation Corps, warmly greeted the two airmen and he was followed by the Mayor of Tokio who formally welcomed them in the name of the City. Afterwards medals of honor from the Imperial Aeronautical Association and wreaths of flowers and other tokens from numbers of public bodies were presented.

Major-General Inouye read an address of welcome in which he congratulated the Italian airmen on their success and expressed his admiration for their dauntless efforts. He declared that the enterprise was not only an honor to military aviation but to aviation as a whole.

ITALIAN REPLIES

The Italian Ambassador, replying, said that the achievement and the reception had brought the two nations very closely together.

A large number of prominent personages were present, including Viscount Uchida, the Foreign Minister; Lieutenant-General Tanaka, the War Minister; Viscount Ijuin, former Ambassador at Rome, and members of the diplomatic corps.

The airmen on their arrival were met by three Japanese military aeroplanes.

Lieutenants Ferrarin and Masiero will be the guests of honor at many receptions and entertainments, both public and private, during their stay in Tokio.

Holders of International Savings Society bonds will instead of hunting through the long dists of prize-winners to find their own numbers, be able to simplify this proceeding very considerably. The new system is after the style of the ship-board decimal sweep. The numbers from 0 to 9 inclusive, will be put in a hat, or whatever is the correct thing on these occasions, and the number which is drawn will be the winning terminal number. All bond numbers ending in the figure thus drawn will be allotted a $12 prize. The reason for this change is the large number of new bonds coming into force each drawing, and the consequent increased labor devolving on the staff.

prominent position in the East Indies than they have had up till now.

NATIVES ASK SEATS

"The leaders of the natives often urge that the rights of the natives ought not to remain behind those of the Chinese. The protection of the large masses of the native population should of course remain an important object of the Government's policy, but it is a matter of fact that the Chinese are generally much better off than the native masses.

"In 1919 the Government instituted a committee to prepare political reforms. One of the most important changes expected to materialise as a result of the work of this committee, is the unification of the legal status of all elements of the population. As soon as this becomes law, racial discrimination will disappear from all Laws and Regulations concerning public rights.

"But one should not overlook that it will necessarily take time to introduce reforms. To give an example: The Chinese in the Netherland East Indies number about 800,000, that is to say about seven times the number of Europeans.

HUGE TASK ARISES

"The natives wish to be treated the same as the Chinese in their midst. The cry for unification therefore implies that the Government faces the huge task of providing for a modern Western system of Government for a population of about 50 million people. How to find the men and the money necessary for running this Western form of Government is at present the great problem in the Netherland East Indies. The budget is increasing every year. In 1918 the estimated expenditure was 437½, millions of Guilders, as against 363½ millions in 1916. Higher taxes, applied equally to all groups of the population, have been introduced, and schemes for vigorous development of the economical resources of the colony are being considered.

"Though the problems to be solved are no small ones, still the general situation of the East Indies may be considered as most promising.

"To render possible the application to these 800,000 people of the same modern procedure as is in use now for Europeans, a great many more judges of Western training will be required. Up till now in most cases the simpler form of procedure established for the natives was applicable to Chinese. But the difficulty does not end there."

WHAT DOCTORS SAY

W. T. Wilson, M. A., M. D., Newcastle-on-Tyne

I HAVE now given Nestle's Milk Food an extended trial in many cases of sickness, and with one exception, have found it of great use and benefit to the patient; its palatable nature recommends it where there is marked gastric irritation when most foods cannot be retained.

I MAY mention in particular one case of empyema, in which the sufferer lived on it alone for some weeks.

WITH regard to Nestle's Milk Food being a wholesome diet for young children, I may add I order it extensively for that purpose and find it most excellent.

YOU have every permission to use this Testimonial as you wish, for I feel sure the more this Food is used the greater will be the favorable impression it must make.

Thos. Skinner M. D.
Late Obstetric Physician to the Liverpool Lying-in Hospital.

I HAVE much pleasure in expressing my unqualified approval of your Milk Food as a perfect diet and substitue for breast milk. A physician, a friend of mine, also writes me that he has given the Food in two cases of profound dyspepsia of infants, with vomiting of the ingesta, and it proved eminently successful.

IN the chronic dyspepsia of adults I can strongly recommend it as a food which will support life, single-handed, and without offending the most delicate stomach; until the digestive power is restored, such patients are safe to limit themselves to your Milk Food.

FOR adults I order it for breakfast and tea, flavoured with a little essence of cocoa, and for dinner it makes an excellent pudding, with one or two eggs, flavoured with lemon or vanilla, and served with sugar and cream.

I LOOK upon Nestle's Milk Food as quite a desideratum and great success.

REGULARS WIN FROM THE GOOFS

Hope Of Series With Chicago Dimmed Due To Action Taken In Tientsin

The Shanghai Regulars played the Goofs yesterday afternoon and won 7 to 5, although not so easily as they expected. The Goofs gave Tinkham and Porterfield, hurlers for the regulars, quite a merry time before they were subdued.

A familiar face in the shape of Sammy Woods was noticed in the Shanghai line-up. He held down second base in good style and grabbed off a couple of hits just to show the fans how it is done up north in Tientsin whence he hails.

The hope of a series with the Chicago Varsity is growing faint. The Baseball Committee has received word from Tientsin that a series with Chicago up North with that town will not be considered. Tientsin has always been a good baseball town, but possibly its weak team this year has prompted the decision. At any rate this series is one of the inducements to Chicago "U" and its removal from consideration will not help Shanghai's efforts.

"Doc" Downs, chairman of the Committee, announces that games will be played every Tuesday and Thursday as well as Saturdays and Sundays. He believes in plenty of playing practice and is going to see that the team gets a good portion of the same. No announcement has been made as yet in regard to the appointment of umpires for the season but it is expected that Brown will be one of the selections. He gave a good performance last Sunday being especially good behind the bat.

Cup Challenger Ready For Trials

(Reuter's Service)

New York, May 27.—The Shamrock IV the challenger for the America's Cup, was successfully launched today. She has much changed in appearance since 1914. Six tons of lead have been transferred to the bottom of the keel and the bow lines have been made finer.

Bristol, Rhode Island, May 27.—A steel mast has been stepped on the Resolute, one of the America's Cup defenders. The mast is the one which was used in 1915 and takes the place of the wooden mast, which was broken at the recent trial between the Resolute and the Vanitl.

Greek Wins Boston Marathon

Peter Trivoulidas, who captured the Boston Marathon, after one of the most sensational finishes that ever marked the historic Patriot's Day race. Trivoulidas, a Greek, whose home is in New York, is not eligible to represent the United States at Antwerp because he is not an American citizen. The Greek ran a heady race, trailing far back until several miles from the finish, when he moved up into second position. Within the last mile he passed Arthur Roth, winner of the 1916 race, and crossed the line 200 yards in front of the Boston runner. The time for the race was 2 hours, 21 minutes, 18 4-5 seconds, 8 minutes behind the record for the course set up in 1912 by Mike Ryan, of New York.

Lawn Bowls

BY "SKIP"

Next Sunday will be a great day for Bowlers as the Lawn Bowls Club are putting up a match against the rest of Shanghai. Some proposition, but they have done it before. This season, however, they have lost a lot of their best men, including such players as O. Crewe Read, A. D. Bell, J. J. Sheridan and C. M. Bain (who was always a popular figure at these massed games), but from latest information gathered it looks as though they will be able to give the rest a fairly tough time.

On the visitors' side there will be missing such notable figures as McMurdo, who has gone up country, Malcolm, Burnside, Bowerman, Wallace, Spring and a host of others, so things should level up a bit. A great chance for the "griffins."

On looking over the fixture cards I notice that the English members of the Lawn Bowls Club are going to tackle the rest of the club on Saturday afternoon, this should prove a "tit-bit" as the Scotch out here claim the majority of bowlers and also the best of them.

The draws for the local Association Championships take place early next week so get busy and enter your names before it is too late. The "pots" will be well worth having, I can assure you.

The Recreation Club brought off a great win last Saturday when they beat their doughty opponents from Yangtszepoo by a substantial margin. Their victims, however did not appear to relish it too well, judging by the remarks of their President at the after the match speech.

In congratulating the winners it was hardly the thing to state that it was only the second team that was beaten. If that was so, where was the first? And on looking over the team that was defeated by the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club on Sunday I find the names of 14 gentlemen that took part in the previous day's game, out of 20. This, therefore, must constitute another second string.

The game at Hongkew Park on Sunday afternoon had some vim in it and the crowd that stood around the tapes watching Donald McAlister try to snatch a victory was pretty hefty, the excitement was great. Frank Jones was in his element, for he was the winning skip and giving nothing away, he told the "folks" so too.

The Junior Golf Club were without Bert Stormes, who had gone North for the week end. They also sadly miss J. Burnside and T. Spring. By the way it is pretty nearly time these two bowling celebrities returned to Shanghai. The former's smiling visage will be missed in the local Championship matches as he was always a sure starter.

SENATE FOR QUICK NAVY EXPANSION

Funds For New York And Other Navy Yards Increased Or Provided In Bill

Washington, April 7.—Although standing on the 1921 Naval building program as authorised by the House, the Senate Naval Affairs Committee will recommend an increase of $39,000,000 over House appropriations to enable quick construction. The House bill authorised a total of $424,500,000.

The Senate Committee, which virtually completed the Naval bill today and plans to report it to the Senate late this week, also granted liberal increases for other naval enterprises, including an increase of nearly $10,000,000 for haval aviation.

The largest single increase was $11,700,000 for completing aviation tenders under construction at Hog Island, for which material already has been fabricated. The House omitted this item.

To complete 1915 building program as decided on by the House, the Senate Committee raised the appropriations from $48,000,000 to $52,000,000. Items of $11,000,000 for torpedo boat constrution and $45,000,000 for armor plate were left unchanged.

In providing additional funds for naval aviation the Senate committee increased the House item for naval aircraft from $3,464,000 to $6,500,000 and that for new aviation stations from $1,257,000 to $5,400,000. Funds for experiments and developing all types of aircraft were increased from $2,935,000 to $3,700,000.

Other increases voted by the Senate committee included:

Rhode Island naval training station, from $250,000 to $300,000: Great Lakes training station, $500,000 to $600,00; for the naval reserve force, $50,000 to $500,000.

A new appropriation of $200,000 for the Newport (R. I.) torpedo station was inserted in the bill, and for the Boston navy yard, for which the House made no provision, the Senate committee recommended $300,000.

Funds for the New York navy yard were increased from $297,000 to $397,000; for the Philadelphia yard, from $1,100,000 to $1,200,000; for completion of the Norfolk navy yard's steel storage plant, from $220,000 to $520,000.

Admiral Hugh Rodman, Commander in Chief of the Pacific Fleet, testified at an executive session of the committee today regarding conditions on the Pacific Coast. Members indicated that the Admiral discussed necessary personnel increases for the Pacific Fleet, difficulty of obtaining recruits, serious shortage of skilled men, due to rapid resignation of petty officers, and questions relating to morale.

CIVIL WAR ROMANCE

It Leads to a Wedding, for a Widow Yielded to Plea

Lexington, April 24.—A romance which began in 1862 has culminated in the marriage of Edward F. Haley, a Confederate veteran, and Mrs. Joseph Bales, a wealthy widow, who says she is a third cousin of President Wilson.

Fifty-eight years ago Haley kissed his cousin, Mattie Maupin, then a one-year-old girl, and marched away to war. The girl, often wondered what had become of "Cousin Ed," who did not return

About four weeks ago there was a knock at her door and she was greeted by an old man who said he was E. F. Haley, now seventy-four years old.

He proposed marriage. Mrs. Bales at first was reluctant, but when Haley returned with a license with both names inscribed on it she agreed to marry.

AMUNDSEN ENDS POLE ATTEMPT

Explorer Sends Wireless Report From Ship Icebound On The Siberian Coast

WILL RETURN VIA ALASKA

South Pole's Discoverer Gives No Reason For His Change Of Plans

Washington, April 26.—The Amundsen polar exploration party, in the steamer Maud, is ice bound at the mouth of the Kolyma River, Siberia, and awaiting an opportunity to sail southward, it was indicated in radio despatches made public today at the Navy Department. Amundsen, who discovered the south pole, apparently had abandoned his attempt to reach the north pole.

The expedition left Dixson Island, in the White Sea, and had not since been heard from until the navy radio station at Cordova, Alaska, established communication with it recently.

The first message from Amundsen was picked up at Cordova on March 25 from the station on St. Paul's Island. It said:

"St. Paul reports S O S from Russian station at Anadyr, stating Amundsen expedition ice bound in Kolyma River (Siberia) and requesting we handle important despatches."

Later radio message were interchanged between Amundsen and the wireless stations. In these no reports as to the condition of the members of the expedition or the reasons for turning back were given.

A despatch received today, in answer to a message to the Cordova station asking for all available information regarding the polar party, said that a messenger had started south and that Amundsen intended to take the steamer Victoria at Nome, Alaska, for Seattle, but that the time would depend on when the expedition could get clear of the ice. This message came from the Anadyr, Siberia station, several hundred miles from the mouth of the Kolyma River.

Officials at the Navy Department said it was probable that the Maud, Amundsen's ship, was still icebound in the Kolyma River and that a party had been sent overland to the trading post radio station on Anadyr Bay to establish communication with the outside world. It was not considered probable that the explorer had been able to get the Maud around to Anadyr through the ice.

The earlier radiograms from Cordova were in response to a message from the Navy Department asking if that station was in touch either with the Russian wireless station at Anadyr or with Amundsen's ship.

They were summarised by the Navy Department as follows:

"Reports Amundsen's messenger left about a week ago, directing all correspondence be forwarded Nome. Understand Amundsen intends to catch steamer Victoria at Nome for Seattle. Time will depend on the getting clear of ice in Siberia."

The Navy Department explained that this despatch evidently referred to reports received from the Anadyr radio station.

TURKS TO ERECT STATUE OF POPE

Sultan Heads List Of Donors To Show Gratitude For Humane Work

Constantinople, April 4.—The Turks have decided to erect a monument in honor of Pope Benedict XV. The money has been raised entirely in this city and Turks of all classes have largely given toward the expenses. The Christians of the Turkish capital have also put in their offerings; but the largest part of the sum comes from Mussulman Turks.

The monument consists of a statue of the Pope, now being executed by an Italian sculptor, Prof. Quattrini of Rome. It will be erected in one of the principal open spaces of this city.

The Sultan headed the subscribers' list with a donation of 500 pounds Turkish; the heir to the throne and other members of the Sultan's family also donated. The Khedive of Egypt, the President of the delegations of the Armenian Republic, the Grand Rabbinate, the Imperial Ottoman and other banks have given considerable sums.

When receiving Mgr. Dolci, the Papal Nuncio, in private audience, the Sultan declared that he initiated the idea of the monument "as a sign of Turkish gratitude for the Pope's humane work and help during the war."

Italian Seamen To Run Own Line

Rome, April 4.—Under the lead of Capt. Giuletti, known as the dictator of the Italian merchant marine, Italian seamen are starting a line of steamships of their own called the Garibaldi Co-operative, which will be run on communist lines. The capital is expected to be $10,000,000 by next year. The seamen's demands have become so exorbitant that many shippers think the experiment will help bring seamen to a more moderate frame of mind. If they get practical experience in working a steamship line they will realise that not all the profits go to the masters.

COMMITTEE OF 48 TO FORM A PARTY

Calls National Convention In Chicago July 10 To 13 To Open Active Campaign

FOR FEDERAL OWNERSHIP

Aims To Take Over Railroads, And National Resources And To End Land Gamble

Chicago, April 26.—A national convention of the Committee of Forty-eight to form a new political party will be held in Chicago July 10 to 13, it was announced today by M. C. Harrison, divisional director of the organization. The new party "representing the needs and hopes of average American men and women will conduct an active campaign against both the reactionary old parties and in support of a constructive program of economy, social and political progress," an announcement said.

The Committee of Forty-eight, which adopted a platform and a statement of aims at a convention at St. Louis last December, has a membership of 50,000, Mr. Harrison said, and 2,000 are expected here for the convention.

The organization's platform includes:

"Public ownership of transportation, including stock yards, large abattoirs, grain elevators, terminal warehouses, pipe lines and tanks, public ownership of other public utilities and of the principal natural resources, such as coal, oil, natural gas, mineral deposits, large water powers and large commercial timber tracts; no land, including natural resources, and no patents to be held out of use for speculation or to aid monopoly. We favor taxes to force idle land into use.

"Equal economic, political and legal rights for all, irrespective of sex or color. The immediate and absolute restoration of free speech, free press, peaceful assembly and all civil rights guaranteed by the Constitution. We demand the abolition of injunctions in labor cases. We indorse the effort of labor to share in the management of industry and labor's right to organise and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing."

ASSAILS OLD PARTIES

In a statement addressed to "Americans ready for a new party," it was declared that the time had come for "lovers of the real America to organise themselves anew," to form a "new political party to restore to America constitution rights through which the Government shall be made responsive to the will of the people."

The statement said the old parties were "bankrupt of Democratic purpose, and have made their peace with a treasonable reaction."

"We are witnessing a silent and ominous revolution in our national life," the statement said. "We have seen the tiller of the soil so discouraged by tenancy, speculation and the increasing exactions of a swarm of middlemen that hundreds of thousands are leaving the farms or curtailing production to a degree that menaces our country's food supply.

"We have seen our railroads wrecked by mismanagement and then, after the Government had stepped in to repair their injury, returned to private management that had despoiled them. We are witnessing the effort to fix a legal status for labor, denying it the right to strike for higher wages, at the same time that profits are legally guaranteed to capital.

"This is the underlying cause of the strikes that have increased until all industry is a battlefield of hatred and destruction."

GERMANS RATION BIG FOOD IMPORTS

Supplies Bought From American Packers Will Last Only Until Harvest

OTHER COUNTRIES HELP

Payments To Be Made In Dollars In Six Installments, With Speculative Aspect

Berlin, April 26 (Associated Press).—"The supplies just contracted for with American packers will help to feed the German people until the next harvest in June or July, but no longer," said Herr von Haase, Director of the Food Division of the Ministry of Economics, to The Associated Press today. "As every one who has tried it knows, nobody is able to live on official rations alone," he added.

German Government food experts already have departed for Hamburg, Rotterdam, Antwerp and Scandinavian ports to examine and pass upon the quality and condition of foodstuffs which are coming to Germany, and their shipment will begin immediately. The whole order covers stocks held at the various ports, except for 1,000 tons of frozen meat, which will be shipped direct from the United States. This meat is expected in Germany in about two months.

PAYMENT GUARANTEED

Payment for the foodstuffs is to be made in State guaranteed drafts in dollars on New York. They will spread over six equal three months installments, the first installment being due in December.

The contract, said Herr von Haase, is part of a hugh re-victualling scheme which embraces cereals, cheese, rice, potatoes, condensed milk, live cattle and pigs, totaling 6,500,000,000 marks. In it, besides the American deal, which alone is equivalent to 2,750,000,000 marks, also will figure arrangements with Holland, Scandinavia and England.

The products imported will not be permitted to enter the free markets, but will be distributed by the public authorities on the basis of the present rationing system, preference being given the urban localities.

The appropriations made by the budget for the cheapening of the necessaries of life will enable consumers to buy commodities at only slightly enhanced prices, which will still be a good deal below cost. Roughly calculated on the basis of 30,000,000 persons in the urban population, each German will be able to obtain from the entire deal 26 pounds of bread, 5 pounds of meat and bacon, 2½ pounds of lard and margarine, 4 pounds of potatoes, 1-5th of a pound of cheese, 2-3rd of a pound of rice and two cans of condensed milk for every three persons.

SPECULATIVE ELEMENT

Herr von Haase said that from this it plainly could be seen that Germany under the distribution would not become a land of plenty. He added that the distribution would only be feasible if there were no further strikes or other disturbances to interfere with transportation.

Herr von Haase declared that the speculative element in the deal would be the value of the mark on the dates the instalments were due. This, however, possibly could be averaged by cash transactions at current rates, with which the American part of the deal was not concerned.

"The prime necessity," Herr von Haase concluded, "is governing strictly the control of the importation of luxuries so that the country's entire resources can be applied to the purchase of what is strictly needed to feed man and beast."

Chicago, April 26.—It is understood here that all the big packers are interested in the deal to furnish provisions to Germany. The provisions are already overseas, stored in warehoues in England.

Thousands Flock To Honor Idol

(China Press Correspondence)

Chinkiang, China, May 29.—Tens of thousands of visitors came to Chinkiang this week to see the great idol procession in honor of Du Tien Hwei, the patron god of this vicinity, who saved the city from the rebels while he was living and, years after he was dead, is supposed to have appeared at a critical moment and again saved the city in its distress.

Every business was represented in the procession and about $40,000 was spent on it. One interesting feature was a float with live children hanging high in the air on a painted tree.

McTyeire School Defended

IT is evident from the following letter, written by "A Chinese Father" that "M.D." whose letter appeared in yesterday's CHINA PRESS is somewhat out of touch with recent progress at McTyeire School:

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir.—Surely the McTyeire School, its students and faculty ought to thank "M.D." for his gratuitous advertisement for the McTyeire "Forward Movement." The pity of it is that captious criticisms are usually made without examining into the real facts of the case. Against counsels of perfection there can of course be no quarrel, but if only McTyeire is on the path to salvation, why, "M. D." should not begrudge her a little cheering, now and then!

As the father of a McTyeire student, and knowing the course of Chinese literature which my girl is going through, I challenge the ridiculous statement made by "M. D.," arrived at by methods unbeknown, that over 90 percent of the whole school are unable to write a Chinese letter in simple Wenli. Perhaps I may be accused of a prosaic, unclassical temperament in asking for proofs.

It is not to be denied of course that some of the girls now and then do descend to writing in the "Vulgar" Shanghai colloquial dialect, deliberately eschewing the stately Chinese Latin. But if they err, they err along with the Ministry of Education, which is advocating a system of radicals to enable vulgar colloquial dialects to be written.

As to the perfectly delicious rhapsody over the comparative merits of candy making and omelette scrambling, "M.D." will be glad to know that far from neglecting the teaching of domestic science, one of the avowed objects of the McTyeire Forward Movement is to establish a strong course of Domestic Science for the future mothers and wives of the country. I feel sure "M.D." will contribute generally his money in forwarding this cause, as he has of his time in rushing into print. Chinese cooking and sewing have been in the required course for six years.

Finally as to the participation of Chinese on the governing board of the School, I am glad to say that for seven years McTyeire has had an advisory Board of eight members, four of whom are Chinese, and that St. John's and other mission schools are adopting a policy whereby more and more power will be given to Chinese trustees, whose knowledge, of the needs of the country is naturally more comprehensive.

McTyeire School is not perfect; she should welcome criticism, but criticism with a view of helping rather than hurting her. To be able to give constructive criticism on any subject one should study it carefully before seeing red.

I am not a Christian, and do not ever intend to be one, but considering what difficulties the Mission Schools labor under, I cannot help feeling grateful for what McTyeire has given my daughter. And when in trying to effect palpably much-needed improvements McTyeire is raising a fund for these purposes, I give her every encouragement, instead of levelling an accusing finger at her. Yours, etc.

A FATHER.

Here is one Chinese father, at least, who is fully satisfied with the progress his daughter is making under the gentle but progressive methods of tuition at McTyeire. Cooking and sewing are being taught and half of the Advisory Board is Chinese. These are the principal things that "M.D." called for and we do not doubt that he will be pleased to learn that the McTyeire faculty has anticipated his wishes.

At the same time, we venture to say that probably "M.D." did not quite make clear the thought that was in his mind when he penned his letter. A second reading of it leads to the conclusion that he may have in his mind the fear that McTyeire is trying to change Chinese girls into foreign girls. Such a transformation would be impossible even if McTyeire desired it, which, of course, McTyeire doesn't.

"M. D." should bear in mind that many thousands of young Chinese men are receiving foreign educations and that they are going to be the future leaders of China. And many of them are going to desire wives who are somewhat abreast of them in education. These young men will turn naturally to young ladies of the type turned out by McTyeire. Beyond this thought, however is the bigger one that McTyeire is seeking to give its students the best all-round education possible, both foreign and Chinese, in order to fit them to be the future leaders of their sex in China. The men and women of China must advance together, side by side. China cannot turn back. She must go forward, and if the Chinese women are to be left in the past while the men step into the future, what sort of a country will eventuate?

Fight For Power In Germany

How The People Suffer

BY G. WARD PRICE

Berlin.—"Not peace, but armistice," is the threat with which the advanced wing of the German Socialist Party agreed to call off the general strike and return to work. And the advanced wing not only of the Socialist but also of every party in Germany has gained enormously in numbers by a natural process of radical reaction since the German Junkers made their ill-planned, ill-timed, ill-executed revolution, and retired from the political stage in this country covered with ridicule and confusion.

For the Majority Socialists, that big moderate Republican group which represents the ordinary, steady, level-headed middle and working class opinion of Germany, has raised a devil which it cannot tame.

When the Majority Socialist Cabinet of Ebert, Bauer, and Noske drove off in the sunlit hours of that early Saturday morning to Dresden they left behind them an appeal to the workers of Germany to rise against the Junker usurpers in a general strike.

The workers of Germany took up the Government's appeal with enthusiasm. Everyone struck, from Under-Secretaries of State to sewermen. The nation just stopped.

Nothing functioned any more. You went to the tap to turn on the water; there was no water. You switched on the light; nothing happened. If you wished to go to the other end of Berlin you had to walk there; no trams, no trains, no cabs.

No food came into the markets, no ice was made for the refrigerators; the streets remained uncleaned. The whole complex system of services which make up modern economic existence was paralysed.

* * *

The result was that the Junker Government was strangled in the cradle. It could not even publish a manifesto, because there was no one to print it.

One of the first things General von Luttwitz did was to send out calling-up orders to a number of officers of the Reserve, so as to increase the military strength behind him—a flagrant infraction of the Peace Treaty, by the way.

The only way to get these orders to their destinations was by the post. But as the post had stopped working he could not circulate them at all.

Ministries depend for their lighting upon municipal power-stations just as much as public-houses do, and it is difficult to remodel the Constitution of a country by the feeble light of wax candles. So the Kapp regime disappeared—crushed by the general strike.

That, however, was by no means the end of the general strike. The Independent Socialists and the Communists of Germany had, at the appeal of the Republican Government, defeated the Junker attempt at usurpation of power. But now the same parties began to say, "Why shouldn't we proceed a step farther and drive out the bourgeois Republican Government itself?"

And for a day or two it looked as if they might do it. The Republican Government only bought off the Old Man of the Sea it had placed upon its own neck by wholesale concessions, which already place practically the dominant power of Germany into the hands of the Advanced Socialists.

And so, when the latter finally agreed to lay down the weapon they had tried and proved so deadly, they did so with the threat I have quoted at the opening of this article.

And that threat is not an empty one. The next few weeks in Germany will see a desperate strife of propaganda between the Moderates and the Reds.

The former will play for time, hoping that if they can stall off the renewal of the attack long enough, old differences, forgotten in the prevailing flush of victory just now, will creep back into the ranks of the Extremists, and that the self-confident, aggressive block which is now striving eagerly towards the establishment of a Soviet Government in Germany may somehow weaken and split up.

Britain's Commonwealths In The Far East

Australia And New Zealand Lead In Political Innovations—Single Tax Flourishes—Both 'White Man's' Countries

BY THEODORE E. BURTON

(Ex-United States Senator from Ohio who recently visited Shanghai)

Australia and New Zealand are so remote from the principal routes of communication and so distant from other peoples of Caucasian stock that they have been styled "the Hermit Nations." Nevertheless, they are thoroughly typical of Anglo-Saxon civilisation and in the last thirty years no other communities of equal population have made so large a contribution to social and political discussion.

Australia has a land area of approximately three million square miles, exceeding by less than one thousand square miles that of the continental United States. Nature, however, has not dealt so generously with the Southern Continent. Scarcely one-third of Australia is suitable for cultivation of pasture. Except along the coast, there are frequent droughts and a deficiency of rainfall. An additional disadvantage is that more than one-third—to speak more exactly, five-thirteenths—of the country is located in the torrid zone. Much of this portion is sparsely settled and very barren.

The population of Australia at the close of the year 1918 was computed at 5,030,000. More than four-fifths of the inhabitants are located in a strip not more than 100 miles in width along the eastern coast fronting toward the Western Hemisphere. The proportion of dwellers in the cities is very large. In the two States of Victoria and South Australia, the capital cities of Melbourne and Adelaide contain more than half the population.

AUSTRALIAN INDUSTRIES

The proportionate share of those engaged in Australia is much smaller than in the United States, while the proportionate total of those engaged in mechanical, manufacturing and mining enterprises is larger. One explanation is the fact that the leading agricultural product is wool, of which Australia furnishes one-fourth of the world's supply and which requires no considerable number of employes except at shearing time. A typical sheep station comprises 50,000 acres of land, sustains 40,000 sheep and has only twenty herders who are permanently employed.

It is unnecessary to gather feed for the Winter season, and the general plan has been to provide no store of provender for a dry season, depending on a transfer of the stock to other more favored localities, or even risking the loss of whole flocks. There are sheep farmers who maintain that it is more profitable to pursue this latter course than to provide for feeding in exceptional seasons.

Australia has great mineral wealth and is especially rich in gold, silver, lead, coal and copper. The production of gold has been very large, but reached its peak in the year 1903, and since then by reason of depletion of the mines and increased cost of labor the yield has fallen to one-third of the maximum. It was the discovery of gold in 1851 which aroused attention to Australia and caused the migration which has been the principal factor in the growth of the country. In addition to these minerals, there is an almost unlimited variety of others, including tin, zinc, platinum, wolfram, opals and even diamonds. Only a short time ago iron and steel mills were unknown in Australia, but this is now a growing and prosperous industry. There are unlimited supplies of coal and of iron ore, which, though distant from each other, are located conveniently near to the seaboard so that they can be readily brought together by water transportation, and thus there is every prospect that before the lapse of many years Australia will be self-sufficient in its supply of iron and steel.

Australia was divided into six independent colonies of the British Empire: New South Wales, which has much the largest population and contains the leading city of Sydney; Victoria, much smaller in area but second in population, the most conservative of the colonies; Queensland, the most radical, including a very large area in the torrid zone; South Australia and Western Australia, each of which has a very interesting political and social history; and the Island of Tasmania, separated from the mainland by a strait. After long agitation, these six colonies were united under the name of States in one Commonwealth with a Central Government at Melbourne on January 1, 1901.

NEW ZEALAND'S WEALTH

New Zealand, approximately one-thirtieth as large as Australia, unlike that country has almost everywhere a great abundance of moisture, and is capable of producing nearly all the fruits and products of the temperate zone. Four-fifths of its area is suitable for cultivation or pasturage. It is made up of two islands, the North and the South, extending over a length of 1,000 miles with an area slightly over a length of 1,000 miles with an area slightly over 100,000 square miles, and had a population of about 1,100,000 in 1916. The country is remarkable for its scenic attractions. It is indeed a wonderland, and would be a favorite resort for tourists from the United States if the distance were not so great and the means of communication so deficient.

New Zealand differs from Australia in that there is a large middle class made up of small farmers. Its products are predominantly agricultural, though gold of a value of more than $400,000,000 has been mined in the two islands. Wool, frozen meat, butter and cheese—nearly all of which are shipped to England—are the sources of its wealth.

There are certain distinctive features common to both these countries which stand out prominently. In the legislation which has characterised the colonies, New Zealand has been more frequently the pioneer, but Australia has become the more radical. That which is first to be mentioned is a boldness in political initiative and a readiness to adopt progressive ideas.

A second distinctive feature is the settled purpose to exclude all races except the Caucasian. It is the boast of each that it is a white man's country. The most rigid regulations have been adopted against Chinese or Japanese immigrants, as well as against all other races of different color. There is indeed a lack of cordiality for the admission of outsiders even of the Caucasian race.

OUTSIDERS EXCLUDED

The exclusion of foreign immigrants is carried so far that latent possibilities in Australia for the raising of tropical or semi-tropical products, especially sugar, are neglected. It was at one time contended that Caucasian labor could be utilised, but when, after trial, this was proved not to be true, the stand was taken that it was better to go without these products and be content with a smaller population than to admit aliens of a type not readily assimilated.

A considerable number of Chinese migrated to Australia before the exclusion laws were adopted, but now there is a requirement that each immigrant must be able to write from dictation not less than fifty words of a European language and add to the statement his signature. There is also provision for a medical examination of prospective immigrants in the country of embarkation. The laws of New Zealand are equally severe.

Both countries show an overwhelming preponderance of British stock. The census returns in both countries are strikingly similar and show that 97 percent of the population are natives or were born in other portions of the British Empire inhabited by the white race.

Some forty years ago Professor Seeley of Cambridge wrote that Australia was the most distinctively English of all the colonies of the empire. If he were writing now he would probably give this position to New Zealand, though the two have a marked similarity in this regard.

Closely associated with the feature just mentioned is attachment to the mother country. In New Zealand, even those of the third generation of natives, when they contemplate a trip to England, speak of going home. The ties that bind these outlying dominions to the parent State have been infinitely strengthened by the support given to the empire in times of emergency. At the time of the Boer war, Australia and New Zealand sent 25,000 men to South Africa. In the late war, the contribution of the two dominions, when the great distance from the seat of conflict is taken into account, assumes almost the first position in the defense of the British Empire. Australia enlisted 400,000 men, who went to Egypt, to Gallipoli and to France; New Zealand, over 100,000. These men proved to be fighters of the most stalwart type. The percentage of mortality and of wounded among them was very large.

UNFRIENDLY TO AMERICA

The visitor to Australia will possibly meet with some disappointment in the attitude toward the people of the United States. There was a loud complaint in the early years of the war because our country did not enter. Criticism was more severe and conditions were less understood than in England. Since the war, great fault has been found because the United States has not entered the League of Nations.

The visitor also would take offense at the coldness and unjust attacks upon anything American by a section of the press. One periodical of very wide circulation published an article not long ago full of inaccuracies, ridiculing President Lincoln, speaking of the Confederate States as a small portion of the Southeastern States of the Union, and comparing President Lincoln's difficulties to those of Lord Beaconsfield in the Ashantee war.

As regards trade with the United States, there has been a very great increase in recent years, due to the restriction of supplies from England and other sources. In the future, we shall no doubt require very large quantities of wool from Australia and of other products, such as hides, and they will import from this country various manufactured articles. There has been for years an agitation for a higher tariff in Australia, which seems likely to succeed at the present session of the Commonwealth Parliament. It is contemplated that preferential rates shall be granted to Great Britain, though apparently not to Canada.

In this connection, it must be said that in these two countries, although complaints of the higher cost of living are very general, prices are nearer to former standards than in any other. The greater difficulty in marketing their products, with increased cost of transportation, has had much to do with this. Until last year the price of wheat was only $1.25 per bushel, and articles of food were low in proportion.

In New Zealand there is a widespread misunderstanding of the scope of the Webb-Pomerene act allowing combinations for the export trade. The groundless fear is entertained that this means an effort by great combinations to obtain a monopoly of their trade and to make their country a dumping ground for surplus production. At a meeting of a large association of farmers held in January a proposition was enthusiastically received for a differential duty of 20 percent against imports from America. It does not seem probable, however, that this will be adopted.

POLITICAL POWER OF LABOR

Another distinctive feature is the regard which is manifested in legislation and the settled policies of the States of Australia as well as of the Commonwealth and in New Zealand for labor and the general welfare. Most emphatically, labor is in politics. Prior to 1890 there had been labor unions, but no strong central body. In August of that year ship masters and seamen sought affiliation with the Melbourne Trades Hall. The shipping companies opposed their association with any general organisation of workingmen. There was a strike. This was unsuccessful, but workmen were advised to use the weapon of the ballot instead of the strike.

Then followed a separate political organisation, which for compactness and efficiency can hardly be surpassed. A labor party pure and simple was organised in Australia, which made its influence felt from the very start, and in April, 1904, obtained control of the Commonwealth Government. The labor unions elect a representative council, and the action of this body is held to be binding upon members of Parliament and other members of the unions elected to office. The present Prime Minister, William M. Hughes, made his entry into politics as a member of the Labor Party and soon became a leader, but his advocacy of conscription during the war and an accusation of growing conservatism caused his expulsion from the Labor Party, and he, with others, became identified with what is called the Nationalist Party. At an election on December 13 last, the Nationalists gained a plurality of the Members of Parliament. The Labor Party stood second. A third organisation, known as the Farmers' Party, conservative as regards labor questions, but founded on class interest, gained an increased number of members. In New Zealand, the labor element gave its support in 1890 and since to the Liberal Party and sought to control its policies.

The legislation adopted in the two dominions includes a great variety. At first the achievements of the Labor Party were political rather than social. The one-man-one-vote principle was adopted. Universal suffrage, including women, became the law of both countries. Education was promoted and vital changes in taxation were made, aimed at large holdings of land, imposing graded taxation upon incomes, and discriminating between personal earnings and incomes upon investments.

SINGLE TAX IN EFFECT

Radical measures have been adopted in land taxation. The levy is made upon the value of the land irrespective of improvements, following the ideas of Henry George, who was once a visitor in Australia. Land up to the value of £500 is free from taxation. Large holdings are subject to graduated taxes varying from one-half penny up to 10½ pence per pound in New Zealand, and from 1 penny to 6 pence in Australia. Also, there is a surtax upon absent land owners. This is fixed at 50 percent in New Zealand upon those absent for a year or more, and in 1917 a penal tax was imposed upon those who had not contributed to the war loan in proportion to their incomes.

Invalid pensions and old-age pensions for those who have reached the age of 65 years and are dependent are granted in both countries.

In labor legislation in the States of Australia and in the two dominions, there have been many measures of a very advanced type and some experiments have been tried and abandoned. Wage boards were provided, with authority to fix minimum wages and to determine the conditions of labor as to hours and physical conditions in factories and elsewhere. Sweating was severely prohibited. Boards of conciliation were established, made up of an umpire and representatives of employer and employe. Courts were constituted in which either a judge was to sit alone or to sit with assessors representing both parties. The principle of compulsory arbitration has been adopted. The result has been that the State practically controls industry, for in all regulations and decisions the profits of employers are taken into account.

The aim of these regulations was not avowedly socialist. A French writer, M. Metin, has written a book upon Australia and New Zealand, entitled "Socialisme sans Doctrines," maintaining that the theories of Karl Marx and other Socialists have not been the basis of legislation, but considerations of expediency which are largely local in their origin.

Certain questions arise for further consideration in later articles: How far are conditions in Australia and New Zealand similar to those in the United States? What suggestions do these countries offer to us in labor legislation? The policies adopted there are certainly characterised by a boldness and an intelligence which merit the most careful consideration.

Correspondence

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: How vote for President? Never so many to choose from—or so little choice, so little assurance of any man. Wood? Is he Roosevelt's choice? May be; but so was Taft. Best let him alone. Johnson? yes—he was very choice till he went mad on the Peace Treaty and that is most important this year.

Hoover, the "best bet" for vote getting made good in war work—but—so did Grant. Why should a good organiser make a good President any more than Grant who was a good soldier. Harding-Cox-Lowden-Clark-Marshall - Edwards all cheap politicians. Taft and Bryan—proven to be failures. Hughes a possibility.

Might vote for Debs as a protest—and every Debs vote is going to count for it is going to score the professional politician.

But, my choice after all is Coolidge. He has been up against it and has made good in the very problems a new President must face. He cannot be bought or bluffed or flattered or led astray (as Taft was) by any group of men. He has old New England blood that counts and that the country needs. (I am not from New England). He is, at present, my choice of candidates.

Signed "OHIO."

He Was All Right

A Kentucky colonel of the old school had made a proud boast that he hadn't drunk a glass of water in twenty years.

One day as he was riding to Nashville on the old Louisville & Nashville the train was wrecked while crossing a bridge and plunged into the river. They pulled the colonel out with a boathook, and when they got him on shore one of his friends rushed up, crying:

"Colonel, are you hurt?"

"No!" he snorted. "Never swallowed a drop!"

Not A Futurist

Among the bewildered and in some cases indignant spectators gathered at the recent Futurist exhibition of paintings and sculpture in Chicago was a young man from Springfield, in charge of a cousin who is "strong for" the new movement in art.

The youth remained silent during the view and the subsequent explanations of the new idea given him by his cousin.

"Well," said the latter finally, "you don't seem particularly enthusiastic about them. What do you think?"

"Think!" growled the youth from Springfield. "Why, I've got two aunts at home that can knit better pictures than those."

Could They Start Again?

There has been some criticism lately about the running of a certain railway whose trains are deplorably slow and uncertain. The other day a commercial traveler arriving at a wayside station remarked to the station-master on the platform:

"I notice that your service has improved lately."

"Can't see it," replied the station master suspiciously.

"Oh, I can," the traveler assured him. "For instance, your engines are able to whistle without stopping now."

"One leads where many follow."

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Hall's Distemper (Registered Trade Mark)

Reveries Of A Retired Rounder

In Which There Is Discussion Of Generals

BY A. MUGG (RETIRED)
Per Damon Runyon

I am talking the other night to this guy Chelsea McBride, and the first thing anybody knows we are in a terrible argument about who ought to be President of the United States. Personally, I do not care a whoop who is President of the United States, as long as it is not William Jennings Bryan, because it does not mean a nickel in my pocket one way or the other, but it seems this Chelsea McBride is against quite a lot of people being President.

It seems Chelsea is especially against General Wood and General Pershing, on account of them being generals, and he is also no little against this Herbert Hoover, because, Chelsea says, while he is not a general now, and never has been, this Hoover looks to him like a guy who will be a general if ever he has half a chance. This Hoover looks like a general at heart, Chelsea says, and Chelsea is just naturally against generals.

The reason is Chelsea spends much time in the war business where he sees quite a lot of generals, and what Chelsea thinks of generals is by no means a boost for them. In fact, if Chelsea has his way the chances are many a general will be in the lockup, which is where several generals have Chelsea McBride some of the time he is in the war business, because it seems Chelsea is nothing but a private soldier over there, and naturally when generals want to put somebody in the lockup they use private soldiers on account of private soldiers being handiest.

Sometimes they use non-coms but mostly private soldiers are general's meat. Any time a general sees a private soldier, Chelsea says, he gets himself all pleasured up thinking what he can do to the soldier, and if he cannot think up anything right away quick he takes it out in hollering at the soldier.

"I suppose I see hundreds of generals in my time," Chelsea says, "and I never see one yet who is not hollering at somebody or other, or figuring out somebody to holler at. As near as I can judge," he says, "generals spend most of their time hollering around. A general without any voice will be a terrible bust in the war business," Chelsea says, "although there are many dumb generals, at that.

"Generals are usually big, fat, hairy wristed guys," he says, "and their favorite dish is sitting in a dugout about two miles under ground, and ten miles back of the line when a scrap is going on, hollering over a telephone at the guys who are catching hell up front.

"I remember once," Chelsea says, "I take a message back from my colonel to a fat general in a dugout, and I get there in time to hear him telling one of these war correspondents about a fight our outfit has the day before. This fat general has a map, and he is pointing with his finger, and saying to the war correspondent like this:

"'I take the following place yesterday, the general says, and he shows the correspondent a town that me and my buddies take ourselves. 'My losses are very light,' the general says, and maybe they are, at that, although the chances are they are not going to seem so light to Seneca, Kansas, or wherever it is those seventy or eighty guys who are knocked off in the fight come from. 'I will take this place, too,' the general says, showing the correspondent another town on the map, 'only Jones gets held up.'

"About this time the general sees me," Chelsea says, "and starts hollering at me, so I do not hear the rest of his story, but this Jones he is talking about is our colonel, and the reason we are held up where the general show the correspondent is because the general is a plumb chump for sending us that way in the first place, what with the old Boche wanting the place himself, and one thing and another.

"The next time I see this General," Chelsea says, "he is getting decorated with a medal for his wonderful services in our taking that first town, while the best our colonel gets for us being held up at the other town is a fine bawling out. So the way I look at it, a general is a good deal like a manager of a prize fighter. The manager gets the dough and the fighter gets the pasting.

"If a fighter misses a punch, his manager tells him to lead, it does not give the manager a tin ear," Chelsea says, "and if a general pulls a boot, which is a way of saying a mistake, all that happens is our Government is put to more expense in shipping home the bodies of the private soldiers.

"Although, of course," Chelsea says, "no general ever wants to lose any more private soldiers than he can help. A general figures to be in a very tough spot without any private soldiers, what with them being so useful to him as orderlies during the war, and as voters after the war. Anyway, I am against generals, even though I cry with the rest of the lads when some general comes around looking for my vote and asking me if I do not remember these terrible days in the trenches with my dear old commander.

"Personally," Chelsea says, "I do not remember ever being in the trenches with my dear old commander, although once I catch cooties off somebody or other, and anyway the best I hope for my dear old commander in those terrible days is that he breaks a leg. But," he says, "I suppose even General Washington is around when he is running for President asking the boys if they do not remember that tough night they pull the rowboats across the Delaware, although the chances are he gives many a private soldier a bawling out during the trip."

"Well," I say to Chelsea McBride, "look at the history they make. Anyone will be proud to take part in such a matter as a private soldier because it links his name forever with the history of our country, and so forth."

"All right," Chelsea McBride says, "fifty to one you cannot give me the name of a single private soldier who is in that outfit with General Washington that night."

Christianity That Wins

BY DR. WM. A. McKEEVER

All over America and within practically every Protestant church I find a young people's society which meets every Sunday evening for its services. But I find the typical group of this kind pursuing a kind of feeble, straggling course, and chiefly because their usual program is overcast with a sort of pale, morbid sentimentalism. These societies lack punch. They need pep and more red blood in order to become really attractive to young people of strength and promise.

The fundamental fault, I repeat, of these young groups is in their stale type of program, and I want to see them put some snap and purpose into it. It is very commendable occasionally to have a consecration program—to sing hymns, to read fitting verses and to pray all round for heavenly grace and spiritual advantage. But to make this sort of program the regular rule is asking for everything and giving nothing. It creates worms.

Now, let us see what can be done to put some new life into this atmosphere; and, in making a few suggestions let us consider what is actually being done by a certain number of these young societies which are really awake.

Discuss something. For example, what did Paul actually mean in Acts 17, 26, where he said, "God hath made of one blood all nations," etc? Go into the Scriptural statement like this with a vim. Appoint at least four in advance to dig up something on the topic, from history, from biology, from eugenics, from the war crisis, from other portions of the Bible. Give them each five minutes, and then invite others present to jump into the game. You may not agree or settle any question, but you will at least stir your physical and spiritual blood and all do some real thinking of your own.

Study some local situation and report the conclusions at the meetings, with a view to arriving at a Christian decision as to what might be done, as to what your society can do as a Christian service to the community. If there is a cheap dance hall or a questionable show, tending to undermine the morals and Christianity of the young people of the place, for goodness sake, plan at your meeting a way whereby you may, by Christian fortitude and method clean the thing up.

Get new members. Go out after some stragglers who should be in your society. Do not invite them in to get something. Ask them to come and do something—to sing, or play, or read, or debate, or report, or explain. Give the visitor something positive and conspicuous to do, and he will come back.

Now, young folks—pep, ginger, snap and punch. Church up the thin, pale blood in the exercises and go over the top with a lunge.

A Whistle Would Do

An energetic young priest in charge of a parish had succeeded in raising money enough to build and equip a new church, all except the bell. To get enough money for the bell he held a meeting of his parishioners, at which the members of his building committee made speeches.

All except McCarthy had spoken. One mentioned their fine church, another, their comfortable pews; another, their splendid altar; and another spoke of the steam heat they had in the church and of the coal in the cellar for the furnace. They were all sorry, they said, that they were without a bell and hoped the members would be able to make a further effort and secure money for that purpose.

Then came McCarthy's turn and he spoke as follows: "We have a fine church. Our pews is comfortable and our altar is grand. 'Tis true we have no bell. But," said he, "we have steam heat in the church and plinty of coal in the cellar. The dickens wid the bell. Let's put a whistle on the church."

John Bull Getting More, Better Beef

London, April 14.—More well-fed Britons are in evidence now than at any time in the last three years. Various reasons are suggested for the increased demand for larger collars and for the expanding girths, reported by fashionable tailors. The main cause is indulgence in three square meals a day, with a late afternoon tea thrown in. Unpleasant as the news may be for the "drys," it is generally considered that more and better beer has done much to restore the pre-war contour of the average man. But modistes say that many women who lost weight during the war through the extreme shortage of food are once more dimpling as the result of good appetites well satisfied.
